RECORDS SET BY NEW ENROLLMENT

Registration Rises Despite Limit Placed on Women Entrants

DORMITORIES ALL FILLED

New Additions to Faculty Bring Total Up to Forty

Notwithstanding the limitation of the entering class of the Women's College to sixty, Middlebury College commenced its one hundred and twenty-first year Thursday with a total enrollment of 464, the largest on record. The total registration shows a gain of 17 over last year's record-breaking figure. The entering class numbers 144, of whom 84 are enrolled in the Men's College. With its housing facilities severely over-taxed the College has been obliged to find rooming accommodations for twenty-five men and more than forty women students in private families.

College reopens with the addition of ten new members to its faculty, bringing the number of teachers up to forty. Professor Myron R. Sanford of the Latin department and Dean Edgar J. Wiley have returned from their year's leaves of absence while Professor Charles E. Abbott of the department of Political Science and Professor Llewellyn R. Perkins of the department of Mathematics have left on their Sabbatical years.

Mr. John Howes of Leland Stanford University has joined the History department as assistant to Professor Allen M. Kline who is acting head of the Political Science department. Miss Vera Schuller, formerly of the Middlebury German School, has been engaged for the coming academic year to conduct courses in that language. The faculty of the French School has been strengthened by the addition of Mlle. Germaine LeCossec, while Mr. Guy J. Forbush of Clark College, formerly a teacher at Andover and last year at l'Ecole de Soisy, France, has joined the French department. Professor J. S. Kingsley will conduct courses in the department of Pedagogy. Mr. Edwin L. Bigelow, Middlebury '13, will give courses in Political Science and conduct investigations in the college business administration. Other additions to the teaching staff for this year are Miss Marion Roy, in the Home Economics department, Miss Emma L. Wilder who succeeds Miss Marion Young in the department of Physical Education, and Mr. William A. Huggard '20 in the English department. The College will this year inaugurate a plan of vocational guidance for students which in the Men's College is to be directed by Dean E. J. Wiley, who has spent the past year in study at Harvard University, and in the Women's College by Dean Eleanor S. Ross, assisted by Miss Ruth Bryant '18.

Following the success of last year's experiment in conducting Spanish tables at both the Hepburn and Battell dining halls, the College has turned the Hillside cottage into a Spanish House where twelve students in the Women's College are living with Senoritas Rodriguez and de Onate of the Spanish department.

Despite the requirement that all members of the entering class in the Men's College eat in Hepburn dining hall, which was decided at the June

REV. P. D. MOODY, NEW MIDDLEBURY PRESIDENT, ADDRESSES COLLEGE

Recently Elected Executive Presides at College Opening Services in Mead Memorial Chapel Thursday Morning

Stirring Address Describes "Vision of Service"; Education a Responsibility Rather Than a Privilege

Addressing the largest undergraduate body that has ever been assembled at the institution Thursday morning, Rev. Paul Dwight Moody, new president of Middlebury, conducted the simple but impressive ceremonies which opened the academic year and marked his own entrance upon his new duties as a college executive.

Every available seat in the Mead Memorial Chapel was taken when at 9:30 President Moody together with President Emeritus Ezra Brainard led the procession of the faculty to the chancel where he conducted the devotional service without even the formality of being introduced to the students as the successor to President Thomas.

President Moody's address described a "Vision of Service", in which he pictured an education as a great responsibility rather than a privilege. The address was a stirring appeal for breadth of vision and earnestness of effort in attempting to understand the problems the world is facing. "Not to study conditions as an end in themselves but to study conditions that we may have our share in righting them" he defined as the purpose of higher education.

After the address the students formed on both sides of the long walk down the chapel hill and cheered the new president as he and Doctor Brainerd passed through the lane.

President Moody's address was as follows:

It is a very happy tradition which decrees that the very first day of the new college year, before actually beginning work in the class rooms, we pause for a moment to see our tasks face to face, and in company. This new year of study is momentous for some of us, and I use the first person in no editorial sense. For like some of you I too am a beginner, and while not in one sense a Freshman, in another I am. I presume I shall always take a peculiar interest in two classes, the class of 1922 and the class of 1925.

Knowledge means freedom. It was not Aristotle or Socrates who declared that men should know the truth and the truth should set them free. It was the greatest of all teachers and the wisest of all guides. For true freedom means freedom from limitations. Knowledge is the key which opens door after door to us in life. We stand constantly before doors forever closed to us because we have not the key to open them. But there are doors to which we may have keys and college is concerned with slipping keys to future

12,000 WITNESS HARVARD CONTEST

Middlebury, Playing Against Odds, Loses by Score 16-0

'VARSITY ATTACK STRONG

Game Full of Thrills---Blue Holds for Downs on 4-Yd. Line

A field goal and two touchdowns robbed Middlebury of her highest ambition in invading Harvard Stadium for the first time Saturday, but did not disappoint 12,000 spectators who saw the Blue stage a clean, snappy and determined fight and one that will not soon be forgotten in Cambridge. The game went to the Crimson with a score of 16-0 but Morey's charges gave an accounting that forecasts nothing if not a banner year for Middlebury in football.

Middlebury presented an extremely aggressive, if light, team, and one that showed the results of careful and well advised coaching. It had an offence that was able to gain ground consistently, and incidentally, in doing so brought into play some very effective open formations. Middlebury staged four impressive advances into Crimson territory, the farthest carrying the ball to Harvard's 25-yard line, only to be halted by an intercepted pass, a fumble and in two instances, the infliction of offside penalties. A significent feature of the Blue's defence came in holding Harvard for downs on the former's two-yard line in the final period.

Churchill, left half, proved to be the leading figure in Harvard's scoring, though Pfaffman, playing opposite him in the backfield, was credited with the first three points on a field goal. In the first period the former's thirty-yard run around left end and another of ten brought the ball to Middlebury's 15-yard line when the period closed. A stiffened resistence to their line plunges decided Harvard's temporary change in offensive tactics when playing was resumed and Pfaffman dropped back to kick his field goal.

Early in the second period an intercepted pass by Bradley gave Harvard the ball on Middlebury's 35-yard line. From here, by a succession of line plunges featuring Churchill, it was steadily advanced and finally carried over the goal line by him. Churchill kicked the goal.

Middlebury had possession of the ball practically all of the third period. From her own 12-yard line, on the kick-off, the ball was carried to the Crimson 40-yard line, including a gain of 40 yards on a forward pass, but two offside penalties gave Harvard offensive. Later in the same period Middlebury brought the ball from her own 38-yard line to within thirty yards of the Harvard goal posts when a fumble gave the ball to her opponents.

Middlebury's was put to the test in the final period when a forward pass, Howe to Janin, gave Harvard the ball on the former's four-yard line. Four charges at the line yielded only two yards and Ashley punted out from under his own goal posts.

A moment later Churchill broke through tackle and raced eighteen yards for the final touchdown. He failed to kick the goad.

The entire Middlebury backfield Quackenbush, Drost, Ashley and Gollnick, contributed brilliant work

VOL. XVIII. Sept. 28, 1921 NO. 1

A New Leader

To President Paul Dwight Moody Middlebury extends a hearty greeting. Faculty and students, alumni and undergraduates, join with all friends of the college to salute their new leader, to voice their approval of the trustees' choice, to give assurance of their cooperation in striving as ever for a bigger, better, nobler Middlebury.

The college has been singularly fortunate in the choice of its executives. The names of the nine predecessors of President Moody are the names of nine strong men. Christian men, all of them, with ideals and a true vision and appreciation of the service it has been their fortune to perform for education and for manhood and womanhood. They have guided the destinies of the institution, since its founding one hundred and twenty-one years ago, with never faltering purpose. There have been trying periods, there have been prosperous periods, but these illustrious men and their associates have never once forsaken their vision of service to America and to humanity.

President Moody takes up their work at a period of prosperity in the history of Middlebury. The trying period between administrations has been passed without a swerving from Middlebury ideals. To Dr. Edward Day Collins, by whose tireless efforts the inter regum was bridged so happily, the college owes a real debt of gratitude.

And now President Moody comes to Middlebury bringing ideals founded upon an active life in close contact with his fellowmen and a true vision of service. These are the ideals that made his father famous and beloved the world over. These are the ideals that shall govern the future of the college even as they have in the past. Again Middlebury has been fortunate in the choice of its leader and again Middlebury must rally behind a new guiding hand to lend strength in the accomplishment of its tasks.

With a united faculty, trustees and alumni, a larger undergraduate body than ever before assembled here, all striving unselfishly and loyally for the college which they love, Middlebury will continue her progress with a new life and make President Moody's first year in his new role one long to be cherished in the history of the college.

To the Entering Class

It is perhaps unfortunate that so very much importance attaches itself to the entering man or woman's first few weeks in college. In those first days they are largely finding themselves and more than they realize they are shaping their destinies in the four years to follow. Too often we hear the statement "If I had only known" or "If I had only thought" or "If I had only started when I was a freshman." Faculty and upperclassmen can give advice and this they are most willing to give. We invite your confidence in solving your problems, but with you, freshmen, rests the ultimate decision. The college can prescribe certain restraints, can offer certain opportunities, but it can not mold your destinies for their very best accomplishments unless there is pliability and whole-hearted endeavor and desire for the richness of four years Middlebury offers.

And so, though these first weeks offer hazzards and perils, they also offer unlimited opportunities that are yours for the taking. It rests with you now to cultivate healthy habits of industry, loyalty and conscientiousness—or unhealthy habits of slothfulness, halfhearted loyalty and unfaithfulness. We are with you; we want to help you and we will help you. But with you rests the ultimate decision.

We are confident that you will become imbued with the spirit of Middlebury, that you will come to love her as we do. We believe that you will become earnest, conscientious exponents of the spirit of service that has dominated Middlebury throughout the one hundred and twenty-one years of her existence. We hope that you will "give" to your alma mater and that you will "take" from her. We challenge you, the class of 1925, to enter into the spirit of the college as classes before you have done, with a real determination to make your college days worth while.

ANNOUNCE SERIES OF ENTERTAINMENTS

Four Concerts and One Lecture Form Attractive Winter Program

The Student Life Committee announces that the arrangements for the entertainment course of 1921-22 have been completed. The course will consist of five numbers as follows:

William Jennings Bryan, Oct. 31
Boston Symphony Orchestra, Dec. 14
Pablo Casals, Jan. 11
Hulda Lashanska, Feb. 9
New York Chamber Music Society, April 19

This series of entertainments constitutes one of the most ambitious enterprises of its kind ever undertaken by Middlebury College. There are few colleges in the country today who can boast of so imposing an array of distinguished celebrities engaged simply for the benefit of their student bodies.

Mr. Bryan is known internationally as an orator of great power and force, one whose opinions are not only interesting but of a genuine and stimulating spirit. His words should be especially interesting at this involved crisis of world affairs.

The Boston Symphony Orchestra is considered by eminent critics to be one of the finest instrumental ensembles now performing, and the Student Life Committee is to be especially congratulated upon securing the services of such an organization, as its appearances heretofore have been entirely confined to the larger cities.

Mr. Casals is beyond all doubt the foremost exponent of the violoncello living at the present time. His magnificent art is known to all the capitals of the old world, and the greater South American cities. Added interest in his engagement should accrue in consideration of the fact that he has given but few recitals in America for several years.

Hulda Lashanska, a concert soprano, has a most unusual and promising talent. The quality of her singing is known to all musicians, and critics are unanimous in their praise. Her great ability may be recognized by the fact that Madam Sembrich, for years the greatest singer of the coloratura and lieder schools, has accepted the responsibility of her tutilage.

The New York Chamber Music Society is composed of artists from the larger orchestras of the East, and has as its object, the familiarizing of the concerted works of the great masters. Its work is as distinguished as it is musicianly.

Season tickets for the course will be placed on sale at Frost's Pharmacy at 7:30 o'clock on Wednesday evening, October 5. The price of season tickets will be $5.00. Students should realize the wonderful opportunity which is theirs and in appreciation of this fact, every student in college should secure a season ticket. It is probable that seating capacity of the Chapel will be taxed to its utmost.

President Moody left Thursday for a farewell visit to his parish at the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church, New York City. He returned to Middlebury Tuesday morning.

ALUMNI NOTES

Dr. Carroll W. Dodge '15, who is now head of the department of cryptogamic botany in Harvard University, has been visiting at the college. Dr. Dodge has just returned from a summer's trip in British Columbia with a scientific exploring party from the University of Pennsylvania. He was microscopist of the party.

Kenneth M. Gorham and Manuel O. Bolivar '19 attended the Addison County Fair on business.

Katherine Burrage ex-'22 left Sunday to resume her studies at Radcliffe. Frances Burrage who accompanied her will enter in the class of 1925.

George J. Keppler '21 attended the opening of college and has been visiting at the Deke House for several days.

Robert T. Aldrich '21 has joined the faculty of Goddard Seminary at Barre. "Bosco" is in charge of athletics.

Isabel Bardwell '21 is teaching in the High School in Warren, N. Y.

Janet Taylor '21 is a student in the School of Business Administration at New York University.

Frances Wiley '21 is instructing in French at the Northfield High School, Northfield, Vt.

Ruth Ashworth '21 is teaching domestic science at Miss Mason's School at Tarrytown, N. Y.

G. A. Swan '21 is instructing in English and Music at Bakersfield Academy, Bakersfield.

P. D. Aines '21 is head coach of football at Kane High School, McKean County, Pa. He is also an instructor of History.

Daly-Bresnahan

Captain Thomas S. Bresnahan, U. S. A., a graduate of Middlebury and a prominent athlete while at college, was married this summer to Miss Agnes Daly at Fitchburg, Mass., the ceremony being performed at St. Bernard's church by Rev. James J. Donnelly.

Bresnahan was a prominent and popular member of the class of '17 at Middlebury and distinguished himself at both baseball and football. At the outbreak of the war he went to Plattsburg where he was commissioned a lieutenant of infantry and was soon after promoted to the rank of captain. He was a member of the 38th Infantry, 3rd Division, and took part in the Aisne-Marne, St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne engagements in France. He was decorated for valor while in service.

Since the armistice Captain Bresnahan has been Regimental Adjutant at Columbus, N. M. Bresnahan is a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon Fraternity.

COACH MOREY SIGNS 3-YEAR CONTRACT

To Be Head Coach of Football and Baseball

Work of Dept. of Physical Education Broadened by Freshman Training

With the signing of a contract early this month the services of David B. Morey, successful coach of football and baseball during the past year, in his recent capacity, have been assured for the next three college years. In addition to his work as head coach of two major sports Mr. Morey will, during the winter season, give some attention to the stimulation and direction of undergraduate interest in outdoor athletics.

"Dave" Morey graduated from Dartmouth in 1913, closing a brilliant career in college athletics, having twice been the selection of Walter Camp for half-back on All-American elevens, and in baseball, for three years a first string pitcher and captain during his last year. Coming to Middlebury last fall, his work in developing two strong teams in both sports has received wide attention and approval.

With the return this fall to compulsory physical training for freshmen enrolled in the Men's College, the work of the department of Physical Education, under Professor A. M. Brown, has been more than trebled. The gymnasium work with the first year men is being handled by Robinson '22 and Drost '23, each having charge of one division meeting three times a week. In addition, the freshmen will receive monthly lectures from Professor Brown. The advanced courses in this department are to remain under the personal direction of Professor Brown.

START GRADING GROUND FOR NEW TENNIS COURTS

Work on the grading of a space for twelve new tennis courts to be located directly in the rear of Hepburn Hall and extending to the rear of Hillcrest Cottage was commenced today. This latest move on the building program is in accordance with the provision made at the spring meeting of the trustees in 1920 at which time the necessary appropriation was authorized. It was however deemed impractical to proceed at once upon the construction and work has been held over until this time.

The site chosen is particularly convenient to the residents of Hepburn Hall and centrally enough located to be accessible to all. Work will be pushed and though the courts will not be ready this fall it is expected that at least some of them will be ready early next spring. The fate of the old courts west of Chemistry Building is still in doubt but they will probably be maintained in condition and perhaps used in connection with the new women's athletic field. The construction of the new courts will boom tennis as a Middlebury sport and make a schedule including home games more desirable for the 'Varsity team.

MEN BOW TO CO-EDS IN SCHOLARSHIP

General Averages Lower Than Last Year's Records

K .D. R. Heads Fraternities and Neutrals Lead in Women's College

Averages compiled at the end of the second semester of the college year 1920-21 show that the women students of Middlebury again lead the men in scholarship. The general average for the women, for the men and for the whole college is lower in each case this semester than the corresponding semester last year. The last semester averages for all students is 80.4 per cent, for all men 77.14 per cent and for all women 83.28 per cent as against respective averages of 81.13 per cent, 78.85 per cent and 83.49 per cent, compiled last year.

Kappa Delta Rho moved up into first place in the fraternity standing and the Neutrals took the lead among the women. The figures for the several fraternities are as follows:

SECOND SEMESTER

	20-21 p. c.	19-20 p. c.
1st Kappa Delta Rho	78.99	79.63
2nd Neutrals	78.52	82.64

REV. MOODY TENTH MIDD. PRESIDENT

Successor to Dr. Thomas Served as Senior Chaplain of A. E. F.— Pastor of N. Y. Church

Rev. Paul Dwight Moody, successor to Dr. John Martin Thomas who resigned the presidency of Middlebury on January 28 of this year to become the chief executive of Pennsylvania State College, is the tenth in the line of illustrious educators who have controlled the destinies of the college since its founding under the guidance of Rev. Jeremiah Atwater in 1800. He was elected by unanimous vote of the trustees at a meeting held in Middlebury, Friday, August 19.

President Moody who is the younger son of the late Dwight L. Moody, was born in Baltimore in 1879. He prepared for college at the Mt. Hermon School at Northfield and graduated from Yale in 1901. He studied in the Free Church Theological Seminaries of Edinburgh and Glasgow for two years and later at Hartford Seminary. Following this, he taught for six years at the Northfield Schools and was then in business in New York City for three years.

In 1912 he was ordained to the ministry and installed in the South Congregational Church at St. Johnsbury, Vermont. While here he was appointed Chaplain of the Vermont National Guard in 1916 to succeed President Thomas who resigned. With this regiment he was mustered into Federal service and transferred later to the 103d Infantry.

He went over seas with the 26th Division and saw active service until he was appointed by General Pershing as an assistant to Bishop Brent whom he later succeeded as Senior Chaplain of the A. E. F. He was discharged with the rank of major and decorated by the French with the order of University Palms, grade of Officer of the Academy. Since the war he has been associate pastor of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church, New York City. He married in 1904 Miss May Hull of Southport, Connecticut. He took up his new duties, September 1.

SOPH PARTY WELCOMES FROSH TO MIDDLEBURY

On Thursday evening men of the class of 1925 were given their first introduction to the place of a freshman and the ways of the college. Under the auspices of the Sophomore Rules Committee a brief introductory entertainment was staged in the vicinity of Pearsons Hall. The amusement concluded with the customary appeal to old Jupiter Pluvius but the frosh received only scanty answer to their appeal.

The usual green placards of rules made their appearance early in the week and about 65 cards have been sold. There still remain a goodly number of the entering class who have not yet procured their copies of these valuable instructions. These men are warned to do so at once. They may be procured at 31 Hepburn Hall or from M. J. Axtell '24 at the Deke House or R. M. Savage '24 at the K. D. R. House.

Freshmen observation of Rules of Conduct began after the opening Chapel exercises Thursday when the familiar pea green made its appearance and the preliminary two weeks of running began.

Y. M. C. A. REORGANIZED; GIVES SERVICE TO FROSH

After a lapse of several years the Young Men's Christian Association has again become active on the campus. The process of organization was completed shortly before the close of college last June but in the rush of Commencement activities failed to obtain publicity.

With the opening of college this fall the Association was early and actively at work helping freshmen to get settled. During the summer a handbook was edited with the cooperation of the Y. W. C. A. of the Women's College and copies were mailed out free to all members of the entering class.

In addition to this association representatives met trains, operated an information bureau at the Gymnasium during the registration period and ran little "getogethers" in Hepburn Social Hall on the evenings of Monday and Wednesday. At these times the freshmen were given an opportunity to become acquainted with one another and with upperclassmen. At the last and biggest meeting Wednesday evening Mr. Hollis Cooley sang and President Moody gave a brief welcome.

The details of organization are in accordance with the International Y. M. C. A. Council with which the local Association is affiliated. The officers are: George T. Lewis '22, President; Clarence E. Rogers '23, Vice President; Henry M. Eddy '23, Secretary and George A. Cowles '22, Treasurer.

Several changes in the daily chapel exercises were instituted at the beginning of the new year. The order of the exercises is now arranged so that notices of student meetings are read by the president of the Undergraduate Association before the service begins. President Moody has asked that five members of the faculty occupy seats in the chancel with him each morning. Seats are also reserved in the gallery for the faculty.

1925 WOMEN ENTERTAINED AT RECEPTION SATURDAY

At the annual Y. W. C. A. reception to the women of the freshman class held in the McCullough Gymnasium Saturday evening, a program consisting of class sketches, vocal and instrumental music, was presented. The entertainment was in charge of Ruth McArthur '22.

Anne Littlefield '22, the president of the association, welcomed the freshmen to the college and to the association. The welcoming address was followed by the class specialties which were in charge of Dorothy Taylor, for the sophomores, Helen Bolton, for the juniors, Margaret Billings, for the seniors.

The sophomore class presented in shadow pictures "The Operation", and Florence Bolger sang a solo. Scenes from "Bringing up Father" were presented by the juniors. The seniors showed talent and originality in a fairy story in pantomine.

The Maqua girls sang some camp songs and exhibited the cup which they won again this year for the best original song. Vocal and instrumental music was rendered by sophomore girls. The program ended with the singing of Middlebury songs.

S. N. C. Holds Meeting

The first meeting of the Sunday Noon Club held last Sunday in the Baptist Church was marked by an exceptionally large attendance both of upperclassmen and freshmen. The meeting under the leadership of Professor Myron R. Sanford was largely given over to organization and business matters, every indication of enthusiastic work for the coming year being shown.

A committee consisting of Ruth Cooledge '22, Marion Buffum and Ethelinda Tucker '23, George Cowles, George Lewis and Charles Reinbrecht '22 was chosen for the purpose of electing a president and deciding on the meeting-place, leaders and program.

MIDDLEBURY'S NEW PRESIDENT ADDRESSES COLLEGE

doors onto the keyrings of our minds;—not always a pleasant process either for the owner of the key ring or the one who is concerned with getting the key on the ring. This is the freedom for which you should seek; not the freedom from restraint, but the freedom from the limitations which ignorance imposes.

We are here to learn, not mere facts, not the sort of things we can find out in an encyclopaedia, but to learn to live, to be useful, to take our share. The first step toward this is to be able to see things as they are, not as they may seem but as they are, and to look life squarely in the face. The doctor before he can set about curing the patient must discover what is the matter and this simple rule in medicine has unfortunately been overlooked in life too often and we have set out to perform cures when we did not know well enough what was the trouble. So we try to see things as they are. There comes in the discipline of the class room, which results in a mastery in the realm of observation.

We are to see things as they are then in order to see how they may be. We consider the present that we may make for a better future and we delve in the long dead past, not as an end in itself, but that we may safeguard the present against the evils that have gone before. Knowledge is not an end in itself, but an equipment for service.

It is not only then to see things as they are that we come to college. It is to see things as they may be, and this we call a vision. It is looking ahead. It is only this week that Professor Wright gave me a definition of a statesman which I gladly share with you. A statesman he said was one who foresaw secondary results. The world needs men who see beyond their own nose and who can visualize for themselves what is going to be in the years when they are dead. The men who have amassed great fortunes have left some heritages we are not thankful for always, but the really large fortunes have always been amassed by men who looked years beyond their fellow men and who while they were engaged upon their work were probably called fools. It is the position where we can see ahead that we need and this college will give us if we are willing.

And finally, there is a verse which sums it all up better than any words of mine—a verse which some of you as you go on in life are going, like myself, to love more and more with each passing year, "Thine eyes shall see the King in His beauty, they shall behold the land that stretches afar." There is no such factor in education as God. The love of truth has been implanted in men by God and the great lovers of God in history have always been those men who dared most for truth. It has been when men made for themselves narrow, impossible conceptions of God that they became hostile to the truth. There have been times to the discredit of the church when it has been hostile to learning. But it has always been at a time when her spiritual life was at its lowest. God fearing men have from the beginning been the founders of colleges and the men who have made sacrifices for them. It was not the gay cavaliers of Charles who were responsible for the colleges of New England, but the believers in God who were willing to risk their lives for the sake of the truth as they saw it. If your days of study are what God wills they should be, then you will see the King in His beauty, God Himself will be more real to you. The telescope and the microscope will reveal His workings to you, and you will see the land which is afar off. The breadth of view will be yours, which lifts you above the common, the petty, and makes life worth while.

SUMMER SESSION AN UNUSUAL SUCCESS

388 Students Attend Largest and Most Satisfactory Term Middlebury Has Ever Conducted

On August 16 the Thirteenth Summer Session closed after the largest and most successful term that Middlebury has conducted. The attendance totalled 388 students, an increase of 49 over last year. The students came from no less than 26 different states besides Canada and Japan, and represented over eighty of the leading colleges and universities of America as well as many normal schools.

The summer work at Middlebury is unique among summer schools in that it is carried on wholly in special schools, each of which has its separate dean, faculty and group of students. The English, French and Spanish Schools are as distinctive as though they were conducted by different institutions widely separated. One of the most distinctive features of the Modern Language Schools is the promise exacted from the students to speak none other but the language of the schools during the session.

New York led in supplying 97 students, Massachusetts comes second with 59, and Vermont is third with 33 students in attendance. The distribution of the Summer Session students among the five schools is as follows: The French School, 180; Spanish School, 91; English School, 84; Chemistry School, 24; and the Music School, 18 of whom 5 were registered in the French School.

Of the entire number of students in attendance, 248 or 62 per cent, held collegiate degrees, and many held advanced degrees.

DARTMOUTH NEXT MIDDLEBURY FOE

Blue to Play Strong Hanover Team Which Defeated Norwich 34-3 Saturday—Kalin Out

Saturday Middlebury will tackle Dartmouth in the second game of the 1921 football season. Dartmouth having defeated Norwich 34-3, there will be great local interest manifest in the game for reason of comparative scores.

Against Norwich, Dartmouth showed considerable strength and a wealth of good material, 34 men having been used by Coach Cannell against the cadets.

Eight Dartmouth Letter Men

Dartmouth had eight letter men upon which to build their team: Captain Robertson, Burke, Neidlinger, Lynch, Moore, Streng, Threshie, and Gordon. Of this number, the last five are ends, all of whom have had considerable varsity experience.

The building of a new line has been the chief worry of the coaches this year, Neidlinger being the only letter man left who has played in the line before. Last year's freshman linemen have been used to good advantage, such men being Blodgett, Seavey, former Newton High center, Carpenter, Hatch, Dean Academy star of two years ago, Drier, Cavanaugh, Thompson. All these men were used without partiality in Saturday's game, in an effort to get the best combination.

Dartmouth Backs Strong

In the backfield, Captain Robertson, and Chick Burke are back at their old positions, right and left half back. Frankie Smith, former Waltham High player and star of the freshman eleven, has filled the quarter position to perfection. Hall is the second best man at quarter. The full-back position is the puzzle of the season. The only letter man back for that job is Edwards, who has not been in college since the fall of 1916. Others who are good, but lack varsity experience, are Siegfried, Hoag, Smith, Murphy, and Frazier, in the order named.

Kalin Out of Middlebury Line

Middlebury will probably use the same line-up in Saturday's game that was used against Harvard with the exception of Kalin who is suffering from an infected knee. The 'Varsity will leave for Hanover Thursday afternoon.

The probable line-ups for the teams will be:—

Dartmouth		Middlebury
May, l. e.,		l. e., Brown
Blodget, l. t.,		l. t., Potratz
Swenson, l. g.,		l. g., Brainard or Lampher

CROSS-COUNTRY SQUAD IN PRACTICE FOR FALL RUNS

A promising-looking squad of cross-country runners has been working under the direction of Coach Brown for the past few days, in anticipation of a few fall contests. Track Manager Robert H. Whitney is negotiating with Williams, R. P. I., Vermont and Norwich and expects to announce a definite schedule within a few days. The value of fall training for cross-country by track men cannot be overestimated, and Coach Brown strongly urges every distance runner, regardless of his class, to come out for the squad, which reports at 4:30 every day for practice.

Hon. Frank Church

Hon. Frank Church of Denver, Col., class of '69, Middlebury College, died in Potsdam, N. Y., Friday morning, June 24 of chronic bronchitis and complications. He was a man of prominence in business and public affairs for many years in Denver, where he had resided since his graduation at Middlebury in 1869. He was born in the town of Massent, St. Lawrence County, New York, May 7, 1843. His wife died a year ago. They leave one daughter, Mrs. Frank Pearce of Liverpool, England. Interment took place in Denver.

Mr. Church was a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon Fraternity.

SET DATES FOR ANNUAL TRIP TO BREAD LOAF INN

Friday and Saturday, October 7 and 8, have been designated as the dates on which the college will make the second annual pilgrimage to Silent Cliff and sojourn at Bread Loaf Inn, the scene of the English Summer School. The success of last year's trip into the heart of the thirty thousand acres of the Battell forest tract belonging to the college seems to have warranted the institution of the Bread Loaf excursion as a regular feature of college activity. Further announcement will be made through The Campus at a later date.

A Gateway—Electrical

ONLY a forty-foot gateway bounded by two brick pilasters and ornamental lamps, but it is unlike any other gateway in the entire world.

For back of it is the General Electric Company's main office building, accommodating 2300 employees. And just next door is its main laboratory with the best equipment for testing, standardizing and research at the command of capable engineers. Then down the street a mile long—are other buildings where electrical products are made by the thousands of electrical workers who daily stream through.

Through this gate messages and representatives from a score of other factories and over fifty branch offices come and go every hour—an endless chain of coordinated activities carrying on and enlarging the scope of over a quarter century's work for the betterment of mankind.

What a story this gate would tell, if it could, of the leaders of the electrical industry and of ambassadors from other industries and institutions—and from foreign lands. The story would be the history of electric lighting, electric transportation, electrified industrials and electricity in the home.

Brigham-Hindley

Frederick C. Brigham of Rutland, a graduate of Middlebury College in the class of 1921 was married to Miriam Joyce Hindley of Rutland on August 9. Only the immediate relatives were present. After a brief wedding trip Mr. Brigham entered the employ of the Western Packing Company in Chicago. The groom was prominent in athletic and fraternity circles here at Middlebury, having attained all-Vermont honors as end on the football eleven and served as manager of baseball.

MIDDLEBURY AGAIN WINS MAQUA SONG CONTEST

Middlebury has again been awarded the cup given annually to the college presenting the best Maqua song for the year. The music was written by Madeline Gaylor '22 and the words by Margaret Billings '22 assisted by Marion Crathern '22 and Gladys Thompson '23.

Middlebury, sending the largest delegation it has ever sent to the Y. W. C. A. Conference at Camp Maqua, took a very prominent part in the camp activities this summer. The college was represented in baseball, basketball and swimming contests.

Sixteen girls comprised the Middlebury delegation. They were Margaret Billings, Ruth Coolidge, Marion Crathern, Margaret Dickinson, Madeline Gaylor, Margaret Jenkins, Kathryn Rogers and Edith Sibley '22, Helen Bolton, Louise Jennings, Aimee Putnum, Evelyn Ryle and Gladys Thompson '23 and Lily Axton, Marjorie Knox and Marion Pellett '24.

meeting of the Board of Trustees, the number of those accommodated in the Hepburn refectory is somewhat smaller than last year. This, however, may be accounted by the large number of men who are eating in the four fraternity houses; the opening of the Delta Upsilon house on Main street increasing by one the number operating tables a year ago. The freshman dining hall for women which was operated last year in the Gables cottage on Weybridge street has been transferred to the Eddy House opposite.
